

APPRENTICESHIPS

Invest in and grow your workforce's skills and talent

From better budgeting to future-proofing your organisation against upcoming skills gaps, apprenticeships offer a wealth of benefits for businesses and learners alike. The challenge lies in identifying the right programmes for your business needs, how to enrol your employees onto apprenticeships, drawing down from your levy and ensuring both you and your apprentices have the right support throughout.

This is where we can help.

Utilising what apprenticeships have to offer

Unlocking the full range of benefits that apprenticeships offer isn't just a case of establishing best practice learning programmes. You need an apprenticeship scheme that's designed with your learners in mind, integral to your learning strategy and aligned to your business goals.

We'll work with you to understand those goals, as well as your skills gaps, levy contribution and workforce's wants and needs from career development. And you as an employer. All of this will form the foundations for us when designing your unique learner-led apprenticeship strategy that tackles your specific business learning and development challenges and aims through apprenticeship programmes.

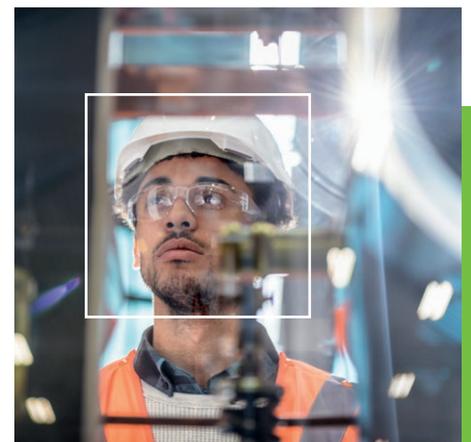

Experts in apprenticeship delivery across every business

With our wealth of experience in delivering large-scale apprenticeship programmes, our team of qualified specialists and a suite of data-driven, innovative tools at our disposal, we can ensure that all delivered programmes and support you and your apprentices receive are consistently high.

Ensuring all achieve

Our expertise in managed learning means we're able to take full responsibility of running your end-to-end apprenticeship programmes, from attraction and enrolment through to supplier management and administration. We possess the resources and experience to deliver at scale too so no matter the size of your organisation or sector you work in, we can meet your needs.

We provide continuous evaluations of your apprenticeship programmes, measuring against benchmarks such as learner satisfaction, quality of learning (according to OFSTED and the ESFA) and impact on your business. As the apprenticeship journey continues so will your apprentices' development, talent and skillset. You can expect to reap the rewards of investing in apprenticeships from when the programmes commence, seeing a notable and increasing positive impact upon your workforce and wider business.
